About the event

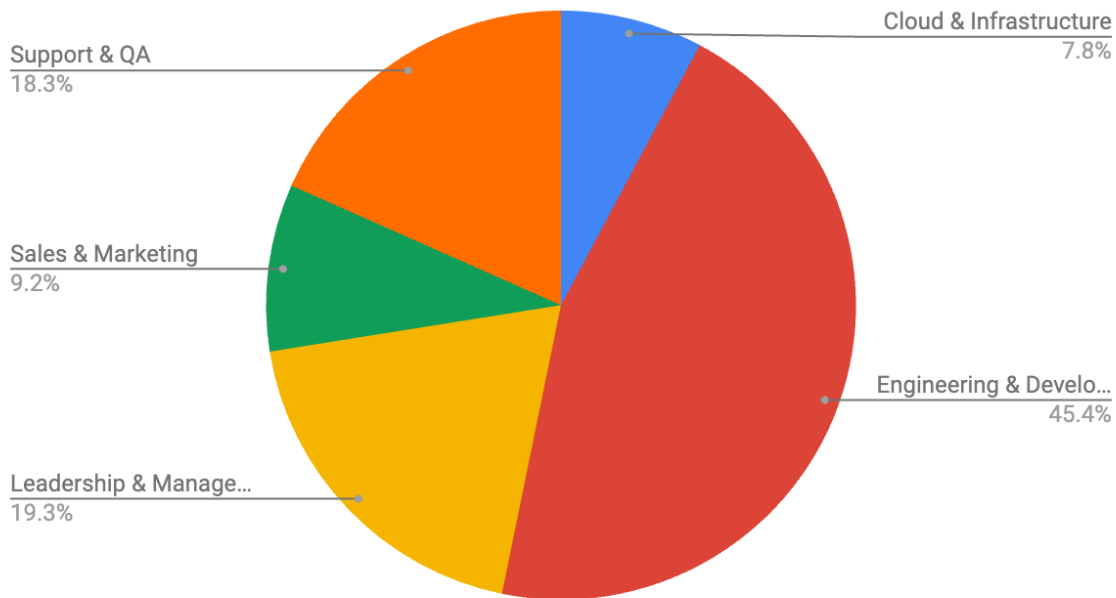

Devopsdays is a worldwide series of technical conferences covering topics of software development, IT infrastructure operations, and the intersection between them. Each event is run by volunteers from the local area.

Devopsdays KC 2024 will be our 5th annual conference in Kansas City, and first since 2019! Kansas City is where large enterprise software companies and a growing startup community are fueled by the fastest internet in the world, Google Fiber! This event will allow you to connect with a diverse set of stakeholders all in one place, and we expect to have up to 300 attendees at the event.

Connecting with customers

Are you looking to connect with executives and senior technical leaders at the top companies in Kansas City? DevOpsDays KC had over 70 local companies represented in 2019, and we expect at least that number in 2024. Of our attendees, over 50% are senior technical leaders with titles ranging from Senior Technology Architect to Chief Architect. This is a great opportunity to connect with senior leadership and decision makers from the top companies across Kansas City. If your target audience is more of a mix - we have students, project managers, security specialists, business analysts, and people managers.

Finding top talent

Are you looking for the top talent within Kansas City? Trying to find the perfect architect, senior engineer, or senior IT leader? DevOpsDays KC has you covered. Our community boasts the best candidates in the city. We have both a regular and rotating attendance in our monthly meetup, which means our community is highly engaged! We also have a Slack community with over 1400 members [and growing] that can extend your reach. You want employees who will be engaged and passionate about the work they do...we have those.

Let the organizers know if your primary interest in sponsorship is recruiting, so we can work with you to maximize your opportunity to find your next awesome fit.

About the space

Taken from the official website

The Madrid Theatre is a beautifully renovated, multi-purpose theatre that has been home to hundreds of weddings, corporate events, fundraisers, and concerts since its opening in 1926.

Rich in history since its inception, the Madrid Theatre has been the home base to several different businesses. What started out as a Spanish revival-style silent movie house boomed until the 1930's when billionaire tycoon, Howard Hughes, bought it up and ran it as a full movie house for the next decade. In 1944, the theatre closed and sat idle until the 50's, when it was purchased, gutted, and resuscitated as a storage warehouse.

It wasn't until 1983 when Victor Patti had the vision of restoring this architectural artwork to its original grandeur and purchased it with that intention, and by the beginning of 2000, the hard work was well underway. At long last, in 2001, 75 years after its grand opening, the Madrid Theatre reopened its doors to the public.

The Madrid Theatre has been proudly hosting weddings, galas, concerts, fundraisers, and corporate events ever since. In fact, it's their pleasure to add a little touch of history to your special evening.

Centrally located between the Plaza, Westport, and Crown Center, the theatre is in the heart of Kansas City. And with a close parking lot, street, and valet parking for some events, you'll never have to worry about finding a parking spot.

There isn't a better spot to bring devopsdays KC back to Kansas City after a 4 year hiatus! We look forward to having you participate in putting on an amazing event.

Sponsorship Levels

Devopsdays KC is a self-organizing conference for practitioners which depends on sponsorships. Come recruit top talent, gain exposure to new markets, or connect with existing customers. Sponsors are encouraged to represent themselves by actively participating and engaging with the attendees as peers. As such, we recommend sending engineers to interact with the experts at devopsdays on their own terms. We do not distribute attendee contact lists, nor do we provide badge scanning, but we do encourage you to interact with attendees, both at the event and follow-up, through things like raffles, giveaways, etc.

Select from the sponsorship levels outlined, or contact us about additional sponsorship opportunities for specific amenities, or to customize something from the below packages.
